100 years

in the making

Born among destitution in the dusty streets of Brisbane's Fortitude Valley, raised in the troubled war years, confronted adverse conditions in its middle years, to finally earn the reputation as one of Australia's most successful, influential leaders in early childhood ... this is the story of C&K.

For more than 100 years, C&K has educated, cared for, and advocated on behalf of what is best for children. Written by well-respected historian Helen Gregory, Playing for keeps provides a fascinating insight into early childhood thought and philosophy in western culture, the role of women in Queensland, and presents the diverse views regarding the highly emotive topic of how we should care for our children. Along the way we meet some interesting characters and leading experts who influenced the lives of many.

Read about how one organisation has positively affected the lives of more than 1 million children and their families.

Where children ^{have} come first for over 100 years
