

Charne Paulson

Early Childhood Educator

Charne has been in the early childcare industry for five years, whilst working towards achieving her Bachelors Degree in early childhood teaching at the Australian Catholic University. She has worked at C&K Kedron for a year and believes that her time here has had a great influence on her personal beliefs.

As an early childhood educator, Charne strives to build strong relationships with all children and families, to ensure that children in her care feel safe, secure and supported. Through her experience she has found that “each child teaches us just as much as we teach them.”.

As an educator, Charne understands she is in a partnership with families, and she will always be open and communicative with them so she can fully understand each child’s unique needs.

Through her work, Charne ensures all children are provided with access to a high quality of learning, focused on their individual needs. She understands that trust and confident relationships are the foundation to a strong learning experience, which provide a context for development and education.

Cultural diversity is also a focus for Charne, as she believes this is an important lesson all children should understand and be involved in. Lastly, she believes that the environment plays the role of being the third teacher, in the sense that children are able to explore and learn through experiencing it first-hand.
